IMPROVEMENTS THIS YEAR.

It has all along been the intention of the Directors to make this year's fair oxcel all others, and to that end the premium list has been generally revised and eeveral new leatures added that have added to the interest of the exhibition as they were expected to do. The premiums offered were with the view of bringing out a full and complete exhibitin each department, thus giving to the State Fair the high standard of excellence it has thus far maintained.

This year's fair then may be set down as a success in every way but financially; it Blaisdell; Miss Mary Ford, Mathematics list has been generally revised and eyeand Physiology; Miss Anna S. I has become a valuable fixture and will remain such just so long as the people appreciate and foster it. And this they should do, for the Wheeling fair has done and is doing much towards the real progress of spriculture, the mechanics and stock breading than is done through any other agency hereabouts. The public will preceive full return for its money, for in addition to the fine abow in all departments there is the horse-racing, which commences to-day. There are a large number of entries, and some exciting heats are looked for.

Yesterday was opening day and like ail
